

NEAL AND ANNETTE PLOWMAN'S Philanthropic Journey

Neal and Annette Plowman have always had a philosophy of giving back. They focus on areas of interest to them that they think can be of greatest long term benefit to New Zealand. Neal's passions are business and conservation, and Annette, a former teacher and counsellor, likes supporting education and social issues.

Their support has been extremely generous and often low profile. Prior to NEXT being established donations were usually made anonymously - often not even the recipients were aware of the source.

These are the significant donations made by the Plowmans, both pre and post the creation of NEXT.
